

Humanities Group Essay

Specifics:

- Length: 5 paragraphs
- Format: 12-point standard font, Times New Roman
- The revised essay needs to be submitted at two places: in class on the due date and www.turnitin.com, before 11:59 PM. I will NOT read your essay unless it is turned in to turnitin.com. If the essay is late in submitting to turnitin.com, or class it is considered late and will be docked 1 letter grade per day.
- Absolutely no plagiarism is allowed.

Due: Rough Draft Paragraph: _____ Final Draft: _____

Worth: 100 Points (50 points group, 50 points individual)

Specifics: Double-spaced, 12-point font, 1-inch margins, Times New Roman font.

This is a group essay. You will work in groups of 5. Each member will be responsible for one paragraph in the essay. Please put your name before your paragraph so I can give you your individual grade.

Prompt

Please discuss the idea of ‘true love’ in the play Twelfth Night. Argue whether or not you feel true love exists in this play. Discuss each significant relationship and whether or not you feel that it is a ‘true love’ relationship. Be sure to define ‘true love’ in the introduction of your paper.

You may want to structure your essay this way:

Introduction- Obviously, introduce the topic of the essay. This is where you should also discuss the context of the essay. Discuss love in general for a few sentences. You have to define true love in your introduction. Be sure to introduce the play and the playwright. Be sure to have a clear thesis statement.

Body Paragraphs 1-3 In each body paragraph you need to address one of the relationships and argue whether or not true love exists. Your argument has to coincide with the definition of true love from your introduction.

Conclusion- Revisit your thesis statement. Summarize your key points and relate what you are writing about to the big picture. Finish with a strong closing statement.